

Alan is best known for his rich, dramatic landscapes but he also produces ambiguous abstract works that have a fresh perspective on the landscape.

Elsewhere, Alan has been exhibiting his work at venues across Scotland, including Glasgow Airport and Iglu in Edinburgh.

Alan's work can be viewed at The Royal until the end of March 2006. His work can also be seen at the Woodrising Gallery (his home venue) from April 2006 until the New Year, or online at www.woodrising-photography.co.uk.